I worked with the group National Conference of Christians and Jews (later renamed National Conference for Community and Justice) throughout my high school years with their Youth Involvement Council and their Camp Anytown. I had many volunteering opportunities, including work for a couple of weekends building a storage shed for the Charlotte Women's Shelter. I understand the value of such organizations and the hard work and sacrifices people make to work and participate with them. On at least three occasions I spoke before the Mecklenburg County Commission advocating for the organization to seek financial support.
